Celebrating Place Gala and Party

Mark your calendars!

October 12, 2019
5:30pm
University Club, 1225 SW 6th Avenue

Our annual gala serves as the AHC’s major fundraiser, bringing together over 250 people to support and celebrate our public programs, tours, and exhibits on topics about the city’s past, present, and future.

This year, we’re excited that the Celebrating Place Gala and Party will be hosted at the historic and elegant University Club in downtown Portland. The 105-year-old Tudor Revival clubhouse is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The Dinner event includes cocktails, a 3-course meal prepared by their first-class kitchen, music, and a variety of exciting live auctions items to bid on – from tours at unusual locales to vacation getaways. This will be followed by the Party, which will offer a silent auction of cool kitsch items to vintage treasures, a raffle, your favorite dance tunes, snacks and drinks. Guests can come to the Dinner, the Party, or both. Watch for your invitation. This evening has something for everyone!
I used to be young and arrogant, or more arrogant: very much caught up in what I was doing and believing that it was probably the best thing that was being done. I’m not so sure of that anymore, and I believe now that if we are not people-oriented, if we don’t design for people, then we’re missing the whole bit. And believe me: the greatest excitement of all is dealing with human problems.

-Architect Will Martin

Whether it was a popular and fun pizza parlor, a geometric, multistory home blended into a hillside, an educational center for handicap children, or the famous Pioneer Courthouse Square, the designs of the architect and artist Will Martin put people at the center. Martin’s diverse projects are all connected by his awareness of the people who would live, work, learn, and play in his structures.

Just as Martin designed for people, with your support the AHC provides programs about Portland’s architecture that are for you and about you.

Your support provides terrific people-oriented programs at the AHC. This year your dollars are helping us organize over 90 walking tours that keep us connected to our walkable, habitable city and to the people who shape our communities. Together with you, the AHC put on another sell out Old House Revival Tour, which always features renovated homes that you can actually live in. Because of you, we can produce thoughtful programs that look at the various, diverse cultures out of which places emerge and evolve, and programs like the film Priced Out, that examine the human stories of gentrification in a fast-changing Portland.

Coming up on October 12, the AHC brings you an exciting new annual fundraiser, the Celebrating Place Gala and Party. Everyone is welcome to join us on this Saturday evening to celebrate, socialize, eat, drink, and dance together at a landmark historic venue, the University Club!

Your support helps to enrich and enliven our shared knowledge of Portland architecture and culture. Did you know that 80% percent of our annual income comes from your donations, memberships, and program registrations?

This is a critical time because we are halfway through our annual program season. We ask that you please make or renew your commitment to the Architectural Heritage Center. The gift you give today enables and provides essential connections between architecture and people.

With sincere thanks,

Stephanie Whitlock

P.S. In this summer newsletter, you see and experience first hand the programs we present with your support. Please consider making a contribution to sustain our important programs for Portland and for you.

CLOSING JULY 27
The Artistic and Eclectic Will Martin: Selected Works, 1957-1985
Be sure to catch this original exhibition about the Portland and Oregon architect Will Martin (1930-1985) before it closes in July. The exhibit has been written about in the national Architect’s Newspaper and featured in Portland Monthly’s “top things to do” list. While Martin is best known as the lead designer of Pioneer Courthouse Square, the exhibit captures the full range of Martin’s creative and unconventional work as an architect, artist, and imaginative thinker. Drawing on the AHC’s holdings and loans to display some work publicly for the first time and other work for the first time in more than twenty-five years, the exhibition presents the breadth of Martin’s output, including rough sketches and renderings, architectural models, paintings, and sculpture, to show how Martin’s wide-ranging interests, from botany and the environment to local history and humor, found expression in his projects.

The exhibition is generously supported by the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts, the James F. and Marion L. Miller Foundation and the Rose E. Tucker Charitable Trust.

The Presenting Corporate Sponsor for the exhibition is Soderstrom Architects.
TALK
Garageitecture: From the Carriage House to the Garage Band
Saturday, September 14
10:00 AM - 11:30 AM
$20.00 - General Public  $12.00 - AHC Members

Garages are one of the most pervasive architectural spaces of the past century, but how did that happen? The AHC presents a program dedicated exclusively to something that people use most every day, but that often gets left out of the conversation when it comes to talking interesting architecture.

AHC Education Committee member Jim Varner provides an interesting look at the development of the garage, from its days as a place to house your horse and buggy, through the early 20th century, when most garages were add-ons to existing homes. From there we’ll explore how by the mid-century, we had become so attached to the garage that they were now physically attached to our homes and often sized for more than one vehicle. As time went on, garages came to almost dominate the houses to which they were attached, leading to neighborhood backlash, but also to an era in which garages, while still common, are used less and less for actually housing our vehicles.

TALK
Architect Folger Johnson: The Public and Private Works of a Transplanted Southern Gentleman
Saturday, September 28
10:00 AM - 11:30 AM
$20.00 - General Public  $12.00 - AHC Members

Like many ambitious young architects of his generation, Folger Johnson (1882 - 1970) arrived in Portland in the early twentieth century as the booming city emerged as the major metropolis of the Pacific Northwest. Born in Georgia, Johnson received his architectural education at Columbia University in New York and later at L'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. After arriving in Portland in 1911, Johnson partnered with several significant Portland architects during a 50-year architectural career. Johnson received many public and private commissions including Carnegie libraries in Portland and as far away as Eastern Oregon. His buildings show a command of the classical architectural vocabulary as well as a satisfying flavor of the modernist elements popular in the first three decades of the twentieth century. Nearly a dozen of his designs are now listed on the National Register of Historic Places. This presentation will highlight Johnson’s career in Portland, including his work on the Town Club in the King’s Hill Historic District - one of Johnson’s best-known designs. Presenter Eric Wheeler, is a Portland-based architectural historian who designs and leads walking tours and presents programs on architectural styles and neighborhood history.

CHANGES TO AHC MEMBERSHIP

Your membership with the AHC supports education and advocacy for Portland’s architecture while it gives you benefits like free or discounted admission to AHC exhibits, programs, walking tours and free admission to eleven area museums, plus other benefits like a quarterly newsletter and discounts on rentals at the AHC.

New membership levels bring us in line with peer organizations’ membership prices and provide the AHC with the necessary resources to strengthen our commitment to the support of Portland’s built environment.

Note that from July 2019 to June 2020, we will extend an additional benefit to those renewing members formerly at the senior level: a complimentary ticket to one AHC education program.*

Thank you, we are always grateful for your support. Your partnership in our work is essential.

*Applies to regular education programming of talks and walking tours. Old House Revival tour and other special programs not included.

Looking for the membership and donation form? For your convenience, use the enclosed donation envelope to make your contribution to the AHC! Thank you for your support!
COMING UP

What’s up next
Our galleries will be partially closed through August and September for some interior updates and the installation of our next exhibit. We will be doing special pop-up events during these months, so watch our website and social media or sign up for our enews to find out about these events.

This fall we will present the exhibition After Promontory, featuring 150 years of transcontinental railroad photography. A companion exhibit examines the importance of the railroad in developing the character of the Central Eastside Industrial District where our building is located.
